Josquin and his Legacy led by John Bryan
Clements Hall, York (directions overleaf)
10 for 10.30, finish 4.30pm

North East Early Music Forum
Registered Charity No: 326282

The NEEMF AGM will take place during the lunch break and those not attending the workshop can participate in this via Zoom. Because of the COVID situation, we will NOT be having our usual shared lunch.

Josquin de Prez was regarded by those who came after him as a 'princeps musicorum', a 'master of the notes' and his music was praised both for its technical cleverness (he was adept at building his pieces around canons) and for its directly expressive qualities. In this year in which we have been remembering Josquin 500 years after his death, we will experience some of his music in the context of that made by the following generations of 16th century composers.
This workshop, Pitch A=440, will offer opportunities to singers and players of renaissance instruments (viols, recorders, cornetts and sackbuts, well-behaved dulcians, and lute players able to play from a score or bass part) to perform a selection of Josquin's music, both sacred and secular. We will then see how Nicholas Gombert adapted ideas from Josquin's 'Mille regretz' in his own setting, and how Palestrina reflected on Josquin's motet 'Benedicta es' to create his mass ordinary based upon it. We will also study and perform works written to honour Josquin on his death: Jheronimus Vinders' seven-part 'O mors inevitabilis' and a section from the Requiem mass by Jean Richafort, which is based on chant and other melodic ideas taken from Josquin's own music.
John Bryan founded NEEMF, and is now Emeritus Professor of Music at the University of Huddersfield, where his research and teaching focused on the historically informed performance of music from the late middle ages to the early baroque period, as well as directing the University Chamber Choir and Early Music Ensemble in concerts across Yorkshire.

Cost £18. Concessions (people aged ≤26 or on a very low income e.g. solely dependent on state benefits,£9). STUDENTS FREE. Please bring your own refreshments and lunch, or use local outlets. You may also want to bring a cushion as, unfortunately, the chairs are not very comfortable.
Please book online https://www.neemf.org.uk/neemf-workshop-diary.html or complete the booking form below. If, having booked, you are unable to come, please let us know as soon as possible. PLEASE NOTE: In view of current COVID uncertainties all bookings are provisional. As space will be limited to allow social distancing, we will be able to accept fewer applications than usual and will prioritise the need for a balanced ensemble.
